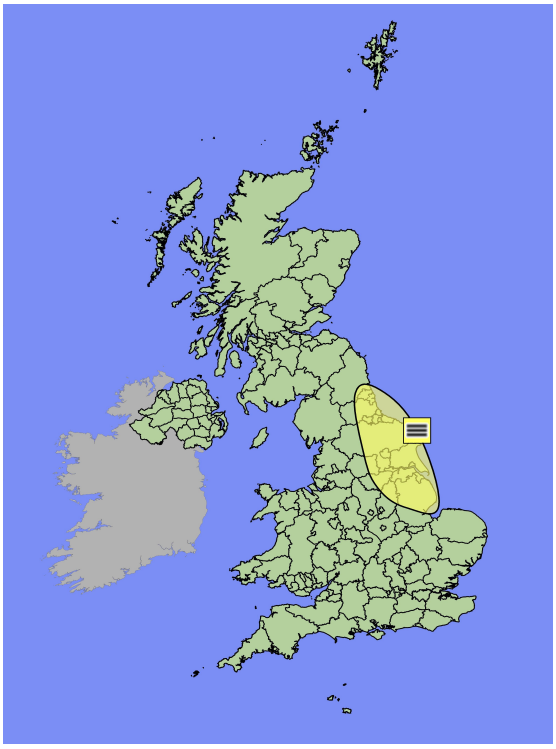
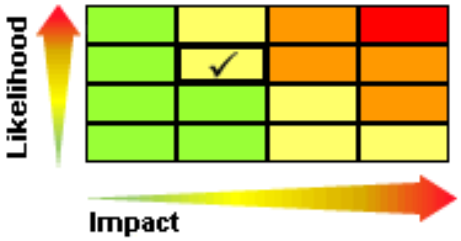
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Temperatures will again fall quickly this evening leading to fog patches forming and becoming dense in places by morning, especially in the Vale of York. There remains some uncertainty in the location and extent of the most dense fog. Most fog should lift or burn back to the coast by mid morning on Monday but a few dense patches may linger longer, especially near the coast.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Fog

Valid from 22:00 on Sun, 25th Mar 2012 until 10:30 on Mon, 26th Mar 2012

Patchy fog will develop on Sunday evening and become widespread and locally dense by Monday morning with visibility below 100 m in places. The fog will clear slowly during Monday morning.
The public should be aware that driving conditions are likely to become difficult.
